Once upon a time, there was a little girl in a crowded city. She had a dream of how would her city be, if there was no poor persons living in it. Every time she saw a child staring at her from the car window and begging while she was sitting in a comfortable car and sharing love with her family, she felt ashamed and blamed herself. She knew that this sad story of little street children was not her fault, but at the same time she knew that she could be that girl on the other side of the window. So if that little girl (Yes it is me) is in her comfort zone and receiving enough love and feeling secure, it means that she should do something about the children on the other side of window.

Years passed by and her dream had been lost among the hectic life of this era until one day she entered a room in a youth workshop in Penang and she saw many Youth Peace Ambassador International trainees and soon after she became one of them and she found her lost dream as well as her lost self. She turned into me. Now we all have one dream Peace and also one needs peace.

I remember those days in my neighboring country, Afghanistan, in which every second person used to die because of war and its people ran away from their country to my country of Iran to be safe. They also ran away to other countries. Many years ago in the time of ancient Greece people might have the same feeling as us today - they were fed up with war as we do and they were tired of conflicts between nations as they all knew how harmful a war can be. Therefore they came to an idea of peace building which was sport, using sport as a medium to promote peace! This is such a wonderful idea which ancient people could think of, and they implemented it so the first Olympic game was held. But millenia afterwards, in the modern era of today, we, modern and enlightened people are unable to implement the Olympic truce, why? Do we forget about all the damages a war can cause? Imagine your lovely home which you made each pieces of by love, explodes in a second just because of a lack of peace in our world.

I decided to extend my action plans as a Youth Peace Ambassador in Malaysia, to train with a fresh group of Youth Peace Ambassadors in London focusing on the Olympic Truce in London 2012. It is sad that many guns are still being used, and all the people in many countries are not friends together at the time of the Olympics. We want to figure out why and revive the meaning of the OLYMPIC TRUCE. We need peace in our world to help save all the children who suffer from the pain of war and conflict.

My social activities date back to the time that I was studying political and diplomatic relations in Tehran Central Azad University where I joined a Psychological Therapy in Primary Care Team in 2006 which was providing assistance in facilitating self-disclosure techniques in treatment of some psychological disorders such as Obsessive compulsive disorder OCD. My work in PTPCT required me to use creativity in approaching the patients and gain their trust to commence the process of disclosure. After one year of participating in programs done by PTPCT, I joined the Young Journalists Club and started to work as a news reporter.

Reporting has always been one my passions and I put so much effort to this job and as a result of that my first report was published without being edited in Khabar newspaper. I worked as an active reporter in the agency (YJC, Young Journalists Club) for one year and more than 70% of my reports were published in different media. In October 2009, I went to Malaysia to continue my studies in USM in Management organizational behavior fields. In the March of 2010 I participated in the organization and execution of cultural event, called as Nowroz event, and it was repeated during March the following years. There were 350 people per meeting.

In November 2011, I attended the Third Youth Peace Ambassador Training Workshop in Penang and developed my action plan Art, the United Language workshop and exhibition. I became a UNESCO Youth Peace Ambassador when that was implemented.

Later on I become international coordinator at an event, Tomorrow's leadership summit, 2012. I also came up with the idea to establish an organization with the goal of promoting peace in the world with several other people to form the NGO United for Peace on Earth under the program of youth peace ambassadors international. Now we have 20 active committee members and many more supporters, and we have implemented several events and conferences.

Our NGO also is one of the partners of the road to Rio coalition. I am also country outreach of Iran in Rio+20,UN. In early 2012 I have attended the Fourth Youth Peace Ambassador Training Workshop in Hiroshima, as a speaker. I am also a member of Peace Museum of Tehran
